

THE DETACHMENT TECHNIQUE

Statement of Understanding

DEFINITION:

A “Statement of Understanding” in this case means an agreement of course expectations, policies and procedures of the Detachment Technique (DTech) Practitioner Certification Course.

“I have received, read, and agree to abide by the agreement of course expectations, policies and procedures of the Detachment Technique (DTech) Practitioner Certification Course, including but not limited to the Education program, expectations regarding student and practitioner conduct and accountability and consequences of not meeting these expectations.”

These expectations include being respectful, ethical, confidential, client-centred and in good standing. Consequences for not adhering to these expectations can include failing to satisfy the necessary requirements for completion of the course or the withdrawal of a licence or endorsement to utilise the Detachment Technique.
